

Dear Colleagues

I am delighted to draw your attention to new opportunities for Doctoral study at the Guildhall School. The Guildhall DMus/PhD offers students a unique opportunity to integrate creative practice (performance and composition) with scholarly research within an outstanding Conservatoire setting.

The programme combines world class facilities with supervision teams drawn from pre-eminent performers and academics, with a flexible programme structure that supports a wide range of practice-based research and methodologies.

Applications are welcomed in practice-based subject areas from students who hold an existing Masters degree (or equivalent) and have highly developed skills as musicians and academics.

Full-fee funded places are available for Autumn 2013/14 entry, with application proposals considered on merit and on an individual basis. The application deadline for full-fee funded places is 31 May 2013.

Prospective students are advised to email doctorate@gsmd.ac.uk before submitting a formal application to explore the opportunities available.

Please click here to download a Doctoral study flyer and please do forward this information to colleagues/students who may be interested.

Best wishes

Dr. Helena Gaunt

Assistant Principal (Research and Academic Development)
Guildhall School of Music & Drama